

AIDS & HIV

My name is B. R. and I am a single bisexual male.. I was diagnosed HIV+ by Wishard Hospital here in Indianapolis, Indiana.

Before I was diagnosed HIV+ I was bed ridden with pneumonia for nearly 2 months and almost died. I discovered that I was HIV+ after going to Wishard Hospital sometime after my illness to have a large boil lanced on my back, at which time a nurse asked me if I would like to take a routine HIV blood test and I agreed.

About a week later an older black gentleman named Dave showed up at my door to give me the news that I was HIV+ and asked if I would want to sign on to the Wishard Advantage program which allows HIV+ people to fill protease inhibitor drug prescriptions for only $5.00 per prescription, rather than paying the thousands they would normally cost every 2 months. Of course I went for it.

Well, after being on the meds for about 3 years I began having problems with my pancreas and bladder, experiencing severe pain that would not go away, and I felt very fatigued requiring as much as 12 hours sleep a day. I began to become concerned and searched the internet for stories of people having similar problems and discovered there were, and worse, that some had died from pancreatic cancer as a result of prolonged use of the protease inhibitors. I then resolved to find an alternative form of medicine and again began searching the web.

That was when I read about colloidal silver. I read several blogs about silver that night and decided to give it a try. The next day I went to a local GNC store and bought a bottle of Silver Biotics and began taking the suggested 4 tablespoons per day (1 every 6 hrs.) for HIV+ people. I actually went off my meds that same day. I figured that if I was going to be living in pain the rest of my life, or worse die, then it was worth the gamble.

In less than a week the pain went away and I had alot more energy. Since colloidal silver is non-toxic, I also did an anal douche with it once a week for 3 months during the regimine and would highly suggest that other HIV+ people do the same. The reason is because HIV has been discovered to hide in the fertile growing area of the colon, where it replicates and then passes through the colon walls into the bloodstream in a continous cycle, which is why it is so difficult to treat. The colon is one of main nesting grounds in the body for HIV.

After 6 months of being off my meds and feeling much better I went back to Wishard for another HIV blood test. I never experienced such joy in my life 3 days afterward when I received a phone call from my doctor stating that I was HIV-. When I told my doctor that I had been off my meds for 6 months and on colloidal silver, he was in denial, stating that the test was most likely a false negative and that I should come in for another test. A false negative?! OK, a false positive is one thing, but a false negative? He then went on warning me that I was putting my life in jeopardy by going off my meds, blah, blah, blah...

It has been 1 year and 2 months since I went off my meds. I am still taking silver, but now only 2 teaspoons twice a day, just in case, and I have never felt better. I learned the lesson that doctors are in bed with Big Pharma and are basically closed-minded to alternative medicines, a lesson that once again nearly cost me my life.

If there is a God in heaven then He is certainly looking out for me, or I have nanotechnology to thank. Either way, I have yet another lease on life. ~ B. R., Indianapolis, IN, USA
